Historical Note

In August 1950 the Library Committee of the The Society for Range Management agreed to establish a depository library at Utah State University (then Utah State Agricultural College.) Arrangements between the Society and the University were finalized in October 1952. Since 1966, the depository library has been housed within the Special Collections Department at Utah State University.

Content Description

Contains repository materials from the American Society of Range Management, which became The Society for Range Management. Previously part of the Range Management Library at Utah State University, the materials include those collected by Arthur D. Smith, D.I. Rasmussen, L.A. Stoddart, and Raymond J. Becraft, past members of the faculty in the College of Natural Resources, Utah State University, Logan, Utah. The collection also contains past and current volumes of the Journal of Range

Management. The original finding aid to the collection consisted of index cards, arranged alphabetically by subject. The present inventory was created in 1991 to provide greater access to the collection.
