Historical Note

Abigail Jane Scott was born in Tazewell County, Illinois, on October 22, 1834. She was the third of twelve children of Ann Roelofson and John Tucker Scott. Abigail, whose family nickname was "Jenny," received only about 12 months of formal education. The Scotts crossed the plains to Oregon when Abigail was 17-years-old, and she kept the family journal of their journey. Her mother and youngest brother, Willie, died en route to Oregon. Abigail's journal served as the basis of her 1859 novel Captain Gray's Company, the first commercially printed novel in Oregon.

Duniway (then Scott) became a teacher in the small town of Cincinnati (now Eola), Oregon, while her family ran an inn in Lafayette. There, she met Benjamin Charles Duniway and married him August 2, 1853. The newlyweds moved to Ben's Clackamas County farm. After a few years, the Duniways moved to Yamhill County where Abigail started to write her first novel as well as anonymous letters to local newspapers. The Duniways lost their farm because Ben cosigned loans for a friend who defaulted following a catastrophic flood. The Duniways then moved to Lafayette, where Abigail taught school and ran a millinery shop while Ben created a washing machine and bred horses.

Duniway's thoughts and writings began to turn to suffrage in the 1860s. In 1871, she moved her family to Portland and, in May of that year, launched her weekly newspaper, The New North West. She also began to lecture throughout the Northwest along with nationally-renown suffragist Susan B. Anthony. Duniway sold her newspaper in 1886.

The Duniways had six children: Clara, Willis, Hubert, Wilkie, Clyde and Ralph. Clara died at a young age in 1886. Willis went on to be State Printer; Hubert became a lumber exporter; Wilkie was a printer for various Portland papers; Clyde became a professor and president of three universities, and Ralph was a prominent Portland attorney. Ben Duniway died in 1896.

Abigail Duniway was an indefatigable supporter of women's suffrage. She encountered personal setbacks such as poor health, money problems, and opposition from her brother Harvey Scott, who edited a local paper, The Portland Oregonian. She persisted despite political opposition in the form of local resistance, the consistent failure of women's suffrage referendums on state ballots, and divisions with Eastern suffrage organizations. This persistence paid off in 1912 when Oregon became the seventh state in the Union to pass a women's suffrage amendment. Governor Oswald West asked Duniway to write the proclamation for his signature. Duniway had the honor of being the first woman to register to vote in Multnomah County. During this period she also authored numerous novels. Abigail Jane Scott Duniway died on October 11, 1915.

Content Description

Suffrage Correspondence, the first series, contains letters concerning Abigail Scott Duniway's work in the suffrage movement.

The second series is Family Correspondence, consisting of letters both to and from Abigail Scott Duniway. Most letters are from Abigail to her son Clyde; the topics range from politics and religion to local family news.

The third series is Non-Family Correspondence, containing letters concerning Abigail's books, portraits, and letter after her death.

The 1852 Journal series contains the original 1852 Overland Journal which Duniway kept as her family crossed the plains, as well as a photocopied 1853 revision and typed copy galley proofs. Business records of Covered Wagon Women are also included.

Manuscripts (Abigail Scott Duniway) contains nearly three boxes of Abigail's writings. They are further divided into Unpublished and Published. These include contain notes, speeches, poems, serialized novels, rough and final copies of novel manuscripts, stories, pamphlets, and a few copies of the New NorthWest. (The novel Captain Gray's Company can be found in the Rare Books Collection. Other published books and novels by Duniway can be found in the Oregon Collection.)

The series Manuscripts By Others comprises published and unpublished speeches, pamphlets, and notes. Highlights include Clyde A. Duniway's "My Memories of Abigail Scott Duniway."

Business Papers include deeds, public records and trust account ledgers, as well as various miscellaneous records.

Biographical Information contains mostly newspaper articles about Duniway before and after her death. Also included are fictional radio scripts.

The Miscellany series contains a variety of items pertaining to Abigail Scott Duniway, including a steel engraving print, Suffrage Hymn sheet music, and a copy of Duniway's Path Breaking. Of note is Duniway's 2-volume set of scrapbooks that she compiled herself.

Scrapbooks include news clippings.

The Oversize series includes materials that intellectually belong within the other series, but are stored in larger boxes. Everyone should review this series in case there are materials pertinent to your research.

1		New York City, New York. Carrie Chapman [Catt] to Abigail Scott Duniway 3.0 pages Catt is delighted the Republicans of Idaho are willing to back a suffrage amendment, but it is not enough. The women need to be organized. "You say that somebody says they will ask for Eastern help when they want it." Duniway should send help now, while there is money. Catt wants to hold a two day convention in Boise with Anthony, Shaw, Duniway, and DeVoe. "Now you know I do not consider Anthony a safe campaign, but she is good in conventions," "her name will certainly draw a larger audience." Catt wants to delay the work in Idaho a little. She would "value a great deal more the objections to an organizer." If she hadn't heard them so many times before by ignorant people, "who fear that it means the introduction of the old reputed short-haired woman with bloomers." "It is our duty to build up organizations."	1895, March 14
1		Portland, Oregon. Abigail Scott Duniway to Senator Mitchell 2.0 pages "You took council of your humble friend 24 years ago, and thus made a turning point in your career that led you to fame and honor...Will you listen to me now?" Duniway wants him to decline being a candidate for re-election and to suggest Rufus Mallory, M.C. [Scorye] T.T. Leer or Sol Hirsh or others. This would "checkmate" his enemies, and reunite the party. "Victory under present conditions would be even worse for you than defeat."	1897, February 3

By not running, it "would raise you up friends in all directions, and might result in your immediate and triumphant re-election." Duniway says that the senator is surrounded by men who limit his view of the future. Duniway supports Mitchell because he supports the movement.

Because of Colby's ignorance of local methods, she is doing the suffrage movement "infinite harm." Other "plain talk" is "needful." "If you will not let us alone you will be compelled to bear the blame of our defeat, as you so in Washington!" 1	Portland, Oregon. Abigail Scott Duniway to [Alice Stone?] Blackwell 2.0 pages The chief gain of the last campaign is showing the national leaders that Duniway has a standing before the voters, which alone made the campaign possible. Her one mistake was allowing national subjects "to discuss for themselves that the two or three malcontents, who posed before them as it were, freaks out parasites, whom the public wouldn't follow." Colby is the greatest menace to the next campaign before stirring up strife between Duniway and the prohibitionists. "Your fool friend is always your worst enemy." To dispel rumor that Duniway retired from the cause and is leaving it to the prohibitionists will be her work for the next two years. "It is not my fault, though it seems to be my misfortune, that the public of the entire Pacific NW will persist in considering me the leader, and the voters will not recognize her."	1906, July 28

"Equal suffrage cannot be defeated where it has never been born." She compares the movement with Aeronauts, Oregon Pioneers, and slaves each overcoming their challenges. 1	Portland. Abigail Scott Duniway to Boyer 2.0 pages Duniway encloses some recent clippings of public support. She wants the national officers to see them, as she knows that they want the next campaign to win. "And I am moral sure it will win if I am allowed to manage it." She is aware of how essential this sounds but all local people know she is right. Half of the needed signatures have been obtained due in part to Duniway's articles appearing in newspapers. Duniway complains about the National sub-agents, but is loyal to head office and officers. She says their blunders must not be repeated in Oregon. She was going to Newport, Oregon, to make an address.	1906, August 13
1	Mt. Airy, Pennsylvania. Anna Howard Shaw to Abigail Scott Duniway 1.0 pages Reverend Shaw is sending back the previous letter and clipping explaining that she as well as others have seen them many times over from various sources. She thought it a waste of the national officers' time to continue its line of action, and she has sent the result to the Oregon State Society. She said she hopes Oregon women will quit antagonizing those who might be helpful to them.	1906, September 14
1	Portland, Oregon. Abigail Scott Duniway to Anna Howard Shaw 2.0 pages (Written on Petition Invitee paper.) Duniway tells Reverend Shaw not to worry. The WCTU [Women's Christian Temperance Union] won't have time to organize a prohibition campaign. "We could do nothing, at all satisfactory, with the petitions, "till the 'controversy' which fills you with so much 'Sorrow' that it brings from you a coherent reply (as from one intoxicated)." Duniway has received letters from the leading men of Old Oregon who have supported her for 35 years. She complains about Colby ("the fool"). "You and your co-officers and agents are evidently working for organization, glory and salary." Duniway points out that if the National had needed her advice from 1889, it would "have led to the enfranchisement of woman in every Pacific Coast State." "Do you not notice? And can you not learn from experience that the national method not only never wins	1906, September 18

	a state election, but can never even get a campaign started?"
1	Abigail Scott Duniway Labeled Chapter correspondence 2.0 pages Duniway doesn't have a copy of the letter to which she is replying. Duniway responds to the following letter by saying she was merely reporting to her what she had heard about the petition which later was found to be illegal. The letter following shows Shaw's "[?] as suffragists, and her information that it was I [Shaw] who was 'disgusting men,' presumably by quarreling with them, became extremely laughable in the light of subsequent events." Duniway doesn't know what exactly was written about her to Shaw, but supposes they were from her very few individual opponents. "I was at that time, too busily engaged in resurrecting the suffrage ship her methods had wrecked."	1906, October
1	Mt. Airy, Pennsylvania. Anna Howard Shaw to Abigail Scott Duniway 1pages (See September 18, 1906. Duniway to Shaw.)Duniway's letter reached Shaw after her return from Europe. She cannot express her "deep sorrow" at the "unnecessary and unwise discussion in the public print between woman who ought, if they care for the cause over which they are contending, to know that nothing could bring more aid and comfort to the enemy than just such a futile controversy." This is successfully turning attention of the public from themselves and disgusting men for they would refuse to sign the suffrage petition." Shaw is not surprised that men are refusing to sign. She states Duniway had told her 6,000 names were on the petition when in fact Pease says there are about 2695 unverified and less than 2000 verified. She has also received word that "since this controversy has begun, men are refusing their signature" or signing false names. The National officers will communicate further with the state officers.	1906, September 12

1	Portland, Oregon. Abigail Scott Duniway to Dr. Annice F. Jeffereys-Myers (copy) 3.0 pages Duniway has been called to Tillamook, Marion, Linn, Benton and Lincoln Counties to speak; this would allow growth as it did from 1871-1900, and would have achieved victory in 1906 "if the state had been allowed to consummate its own plan." Duniway gives some history of recent speeches and their reception. She says it will take work to restore the movement before the national workers took over, but it will be done if Duniway takes the state chair again. "God knows I do not want the Job; but I have dared greater things." Duniway left the state last fall so that the national officer could run their "stereotyped plan," even though they have never won a state election that way. She won't display the "while feather" again. Gregg from back east has written a letter to Duniway that is the first to show the "least disposition of National agent or officer to change its methods." Duniway wants $1500 from the national Association. She hope they will cast aside "personal ambition" and give Oregon "a fighting chance." The Oregonian is now with Duniway's cause, She will never cease personal sacrifice for liberty no matter who assails her.	1906, October 4
1	Portland, Oregon. Abigail Scott Duniway to Harriet Taylor Upton (copy) 2.0 pages Duniway complains about the national methods and how they had an alliance with W.C.T.C. [Women's Christian Temperance Union] and caused "liberty to possess a tail to the Prohibition kites." If the next campaign is run the same way it will fail. " But it will not be run in the same way!" Colby, Luenna Johnson and "an old local cat on the state board" brought unfortunate conditions. Duniway is bringing back the leading people into the work despite the "stabs in the back given by Anna Shaw and Rachel Foster Avery of which I trust they will be ashamed."	1906, October 13

"The instinct of enlightened government is the instinct of self preservation." She must protest two words in the State Constitution in the article of privileges and elections; "while" and "male." "Justice and liberty do [not] in one sex only: that life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness are inherent in every individual." The men who are still alive that framed the State Constitution are in support of suffrage.	1906, December 21

Gordon says this is "absolutely without foundation," and demands Duniway release a press statement denying this. It is the very least the State Association owes to the National officers. "We do not acknowledge any errors on our part." 	The National Board has decided not to accept the State proposition. (see April 2, 1907 letter). The National office has never voted money to be expended by the State Associations without specific direction from the National Association, much less to have it given to a special committee upon which the president of the State could draw at discretion. She has sent an alternate for the National Business Committee and if approved it will be forwarded. Shaw says she hopes the work in Oregon will continue by getting signatures for petitions.
1	Portland, Oregon. Abigail Scott Duniway to Kate Gordon (copy) 1.0 pages Short note to tell Gordon that Duniway is sending an original reproduction of the proposal (from April 2, 1907). 1	Portland, Oregon. Abigail Scott Duniway to Anna Howard Shaw (copy) 1.0 pages Duniway has sent the petition used for the last election to Attorney General Crawford for study. He found that it would easily be attacked in Court. At her own expense Duniway is making up new "legal" petitions. The State committee is disappointed for the lack of financial support offered by the National Committee after they failed in the last campaign. Duniway was not surprised "as I looked for nothing else." Duniway points out that in 1900, with a $100 contribution and no interference, the measure was just shy of 2,000 votes from passing. In 1906 with full support of the national the measure lost by over 10,000. "If they continue to withhold the help that, after their failure, is our dream..." Then Duniway will win anyhow "or die trying" and convince other states "that the National Association is composed chiefly of hot air."	1907, May 27 believes that the work of the National is to assist only in securing signatures for petitions, and as 3,000 of these have been granted, $250 is all that is needed to gain the rest. This is all Duniway can expect to receive, but this is only a personal opinion. The "dreadful articles" in the Oregon paper about the National keep the National at bay concerning Oregon.

1	Portland, Oregon. Abigail Scott Duniway to Kate Gordon 3.0 pages [Draft?] (Written on Oregon State Equal Suffrage Association [OSES] letterhead on reverse side is Declaration of Principles of the OSES for Campaign 1907-1908). Duniway tells Gordon that if it wanted to, the National could assist the state. Duniway reminds her that she was loyal to the National during the last campaign, even though she knows what the Nationals were doing was a mistake. The "Dummy Bull" was going to be taken by the horns, according to one member of the National Committee. But Duniway "dodged the lariat and fell obediently into line, loyally carrying the National banner." As president of the State she will bring back the state of the movement to where it was in 1905. Duniway could easily raise the $500 she needs by publishing the correspondence between State and National, but won't. Duniway holds no animosity towards any National officer and has forgiven President Shaw for lying.	1907, June 7
1	New Orleans, Louisiana. Kate Gordon to Abigail Scott Duniway (copy) 1.0 page Gordon resents the tone of a letter sent to President Shaw, and resents the manner in which Duniway expresses her opinion of the National's handling of affairs, "your lack of dignity reflects sadly upon you as the leader of the State." Gordon said she would recommend that the National withdraw from Oregon. The judgment of the board was correct, "the only thing that could be done for Oregon was "to leave her securely alone."	1907, June 7

1	Portland, Oregon. Abigail Scott Duniway to Kate Gordon 2.0 pages Duniway thanks Gordon for the letter copies. She implies that Gordon has deliberately left out some letters, but it is acceptable as Duniway has copies that she will release to the press which will do more good than the modest sum of $2,000 they had decided. Duniway says that the National Executive Committee is dodging and evading financial and moral obligation. At the present, Duniway will hold the correspondence for the press.	1907, September 16

1	Tacoma, Washington. Emma Smith DeVoe to Abigail Scott Duniway 2.0 pages DeVoe writes of Sewall who wants to be president of the Council. DeVoe is glad Duniway is being entertained when she goes to San Francisco. She hopes Duniway will take the lead in the creation of a central head of the Council Research State.	1915, May 19
1	New York, New York. Carrie Chapman Catt to Alice Paul and members of the Board 3.0 pages A very spirited letter demanding that the Congressional Union's [for Women's Suffrage] efforts at the Federal level stop in and around New York State. She is particularly displeased that representations of the Congressional Union heckled the President in Philadelphia.	1915, May 24
1	Tacoma, Washington. Emma Smith DeVoe to Abigail Scott Duniway 2.0 pages DeVoe is anxious for the convention. She thanks Duniway for helping Cline of Corvallis join. She also thanks Duniway for helping pay the cost of the stationery. "You are always doing some kind act like that to the Council." Duniway is to encourage Dr. Coe to attend the convention.	1915, May 26

	Barlow doesn't like DeVoe's work and fears that by having Duniway's name on the letterhead with DeVoe that Duniway's approval is on it as well. Barlow also talks of the peace movement and how it is harmful at that time.
1	Washington, D.C. Cora Smitt King to Abigail Scott Duniway 2.0 pages Dr. King has no sympathy for President Wilson in his efforts to dodge the suffrage question, and thinks it proper that groups of women visit him as often as they can to win suffrage by the national route.	1915, May 27
1	Washington, D.C. Ida Husted Harper to Abigail Scott Duniway 1.0 page Harper acknowledges that Duniway will attend the Pioneer's Meeting in San Francisco [at the Pan Pacific Exposition], but tells her she will have to deliver her speech "Marching to Victory" sometime else as there is no time during the meeting.	1915, June 3

1	Tacoma, Washington. Emma Smith DeVoe to Abigail Scott Duniway 2.0 pages DeVoe knows Paul's heart is true but believes her tactics are wrong. If the Susan B. Anthony Amendment passed they would have too many campaigns to fight and it would never pass two-thirds of the states. She talks of the coming convention.	1915, June 11
1	Washington, D.C. Alice Paul to Abigail Scott Duniway 1.0 page Paul writes to inform Duniway that she and the Congressional Union [for Women's Suffrage] are not hindering any campaign, but doing what they have always been doing, mainly lobbying Congress and trying to secure new members. If Duniway has any objections to this she is to let Paul know.	1915, June 14

1	New York, New York. Alice Paul to Member of the Advisory Council (Abigail Scott Duniway) 1.0 page Catt has sent letters in regard to the Congressional Union [for Women's Suffrage] to all members of the Advisory Council. In response, Paul is sending her entire correspondence with Catt, "so that you may be in a better position to answer the points which she raises. This letter includes the following copies:	1915, June 24
1	New York, New York. Carrie Chapman Catt to Alice Paul 2.0 pages Catt thinks, along with her Empire State Campaign Committee, that trying to achieve suffrage by campaigning at the Federal level, at least in New York, is detrimental to their efforts of trying to achieve suffrage at the state level. They ask the Congressional Union to stop campaigning in New York.	1915, April 12
1	New York, New York. Alice Paul to Carrie Chapman Catt 1.0 page Paul explains that the Congressional Union is in no way trying to campaign against the local suffrage movement but is simply using New York as a headquarters to overlook the rest of the country.	1915, April 15
1	New York, New York. Carrie Chapman Catt to Alice Paul 1.0 page Catt acknowledges the receipt of the previous letter and will "trust in your promise that New York is to have a free field."	1915, April
1	New York, New York. Carrie Chapman Catt to Harriet Taylor Upton 1.0 page Catt writes to Upton, President of Ohio Woman Suffrage Association, and tells her she should not have invited the Congressional Union into her state as they will destroy the local effort.	1915, April 19
1	New York, New York. Alice Paul to Carrie Chapman Catt In a lengthy reply, Paul refutes Catt's claims from a previous letter.	1915, June 24

1	Oregon City, Oregon. George C. Brownell to Abigail Scott Duniway 1.0 page Brownell answers Duniway's position on Prohibition. Brownell believes that Prohibition will, if implemented now, effect the next generation. "I never saw a boy yet who saw his father smoke a pipe, who did not sooner or later get out behind the wood pile and try to smoke one himself."	1915, August 25
1	Salem, Oregon. Frank Davey to Abigail Scott Duniway 1.0 page Davey is writing to refute a letter written to Duniway by Ella Dawn Moore that claims the prisoners are being treated unjustly at the Oregon State Penitentiary. Davey, the Chief at the State Penitentiary, denies all accusations.	1915, August 25
1	Portland, Oregon. Ella Dawn Moore to Abigail Scott Duniway 3.0 pages Moore is disappointed to learn that Duniway forwarded her letter to Davey. She fears that this will cause the helpless prisoners harm. Her purpose in writing Duniway was to have Duniway "enlist some of the prominent women in the cause of prisoner reform." Moore goes on to explain she got her information from the prisoners and the current administration is corrupt. She also received "a long letter from the Governor, in which he expresses annoyance."	1915, August 30 claimed that she was the author of the "vulgar" letter against Clay.

1	Portland, Oregon. Abigail Scott Duniway to Kate M. Gordon 2.0 pages Duniway is writing in response to Gordon's criticism of the National President. Gordon sent her letters of the correspondence between the National President and her and is delighted to receive them and to later release them to the press. Duniway is certain that these letters will do better for there campaign than $2,000 refused to them by the National Treasury.	1907, September 16
1	Portland, Oregon. Abigail Scott Duniway to Clay 2.0 pages Duniway expresses her appreciation and gratitude for a substantial donation to the upcoming campaign that will undoubtedly help. She then briefly writes about Boyer and Anna Howard Shaw. Then, she thanks Clay once again.	1908, February, 26

1	Portland, Oregon. Abigail Scott Duniway to Coe 2.0 pages Duniway is sending a receipt to Coe showing how much money the campaign used in April. She then mentioned the support the newspapers across Oregon have given. She also mentions the help the campaign has and will receive throughout the year. She also wants Coe to read her article in the Pacific Monthly .	1908, May 5
1	Portland, Oregon. Abigail Scott Duniway to Clay 1.0 page Duniway tells Clay of the, "very subdued and muffled" tyranny of the state's media. In Eugene, Salem, Astoria, and the Dalles she will have to have to pay for her letter to be published. She writes, "we are letting the men believe this is a thin fight". Coe phoned in another $100 receipt.	1908, May 30

	Duniway informs Clay that the newspapers are not printing anything new about their campaign. She has just learned that thousands of tickets have been marked, 317 + NO, before they were dispersed to the voters. It is disappointing for her to see the "underhand tricking of the opposition", especially when her committee has worked harmoniously and is still determined to get ahead. She is also encouraged by the letters she received from loyal supporters that send their love.
1	Portland, Oregon. Abigail Scott Duniway to Clay 1.0 page The Executive Committee has announced to Duniway that they are out of debt with a small balance that can be the start of next years work. They are also going to celebrate the 37th anniversary of the Association and are also receiving support from the W.C.T.U. [Women's Christian Temperance Union] and the Prohibition Party.	1908, November 24

	The many postcards, letters, and messages given to Duniway for her 78th birthday have given her a more purpose. She has the work on their pending amendment ready to submit by January. This letter is her first attempt at writing in nine months; she had been bedridden, due to a collapse she suffered because of the long strain of her work.
1	Roseburg, Oregon. Abigail Scott Duniway to Jones 1.0 page Duniway has heard of Jones' bid for Congress in the upcoming elections. She expresses the hope that the women living in his district take into account his "votes for women" when they needed it most. Duniway also writes, "We need friends in Congress above anything else."	1913, September 13
1	Lexington, Kentucky. Herbert Finch to David C. Duniway 1.0 page A friendly letter from Finch informing Duniway that he will be receiving some copies of Finch's grandmother's letters. Finch also says it was a pleasure meeting Duniway and that he should visit if he is ever in the area.	1962, October 11
1	Salem, Oregon. David C. Duniway to Herbert Finch 1.0 page (Reply to Finch to Duniway; October 11, 1962.) He thanks Finch for the letters relating to the National Woman Suffrage Movement written by Abigail Scott Duniway, his grandmother. He says that she will finally be acknowledged once her biography is written. The visit they had in Lexington was enjoyable. The next four letters are stapled together: first two out of chronological order.	1962, November 11
1	Seattle, Washington. David C. Duniway to Judith Combs 1.0 page Duniway thanks Combs for the copies of his grandmother's letters. He says that adding them to the family papers will prove to be interesting for people researching the history of suffrage.	1969, June 16
1	Salem, Oregon. Judith Combs to David Duniway 1.0 page Enclosed are photocopies of the papers mentioned in the June 16, 1969 letter (above). Combs also says she is looking forward to meeting him.	1969, June 9
