Biographical Note

Palmer Smith (1922-2004) was a Seattle attorney and civic activist with an interest in the problems of inner city schools. He grew up in Bethesda, Maryland, worked in Naval intelligence, and earned a B.S. and a law degree from Harvard University. He moved to Seattle in 1953 and practiced law for over forty years.

From 1967 to 1968, he taught a course at Garfield High School titled "Science For Living." This was an experimental course for students who had been expelled from school or were at risk of dropping out. From 1968 to 1970, he was a visiting fellow at Battelle Seattle Research Center. While at Battelle, he undertook the development of the Seattle Urban Academy (with Charles P. Huey.) to serve black students of the Central District. Smith left Battelle in 1970 and in 1972 incorporated the Seattle Urban Academy as a non-profit corporation, but the school faced opposition from groups promoting integration of schools over separate educational opportunities. It was never opened. Smith was also a Steering Committee member and attorney for the Coalition for Quality Integrated Education, a citizen group which assisted with transfer programs in the Seattle Public Schools in the 1970's. He was active in other groups concerned with public education, civil rights, and good government. He also belonged to and served as attorney for the Citizens' Abortion Discussion Group, in the State of Washington, later the Washington Citizens for Abortion Reform. In this role he drafted the first abortion-rights legislation in Washington State. Smith died in Seattle in January 2004.

Content Description

The Palmer Smith papers include correspondence, minutes of meetings, writings, reports, legal pleadings, government publications, family papers, and other materials related to his activism in restructuring urban public schools, school desegregation in Seattle, and various political and civic projects, mainly in the greater Seattle area, with the bulk dating from 1960 to 1975. Papers include documentation of the following organizations: Seattle Urban Academy; Coalition for Quality Integrated Education; The Central Area School Council; Washington Citizens for Abortion Reform; Coalition Against Recall; and the Washington Legislature's Joint Committee on Urban Area Government, Citizen's Advisory Committee.

Accession No. 4512-004: Palmer Smith family papers, 1793-2001 (bulk 1880-1983)

14.2 cubic feet (15 boxes, one map tube)

Arrangement: Arranged as received.

Biographical/Historical Note: Family history: Palmer Smith Jr. (1922-2004) married to Dorothy (Dottie) Boetter in 1945 and had three children: Jennifer, Jared and Melissa. Palmer Smith Jr. was the son of Palmer Smith (1891-1955) and Martha Baynes Smith (1898-1984) who married in 1921. The senior Palmer Smith was a journalist. Martha Baynes Smith was an artist whose pen name was "Ariel Baynes". Palmer Smith Sr. was the son of Anna R. Palmer and Albert F. Smith who married in 1877. Anna R. Palmer's parents were Monroe Palmer (1819-1892) and Martha B. Palmer (1826-1912). Other family members reflected in the material include: Palmer Smith Jr.'s brother, Frank White Smith (1928-2003), his uncle, Francis Adams Smith (died 1956), and Baynes family members.

Scope and Content: Consisting primarily of family correspondence, this group of materials also includes seven scrapbooks of clippings from Palmer Smith Sr.'s journalism career, genealogical histories of the Baynes, Coolidge, Palmer and Smith families, and writings, foremost by Palmer Smith Sr., but also by Anna R. Palmer Smith, and Martha Baynes Smith. Other material of note includes correspondence from the White House (Martha Baynes Smith's brother, William, was married to Hubert Humphrey's sister, Fern); a file relating to President J.F. Kennedy's planned trip to Seattle in 1962 which was cancelled due to the Cuban Missile Crisis; books owned by family members (including an autograph book) which date to the 19th century; and original drawings, reproductions, and writings by "Ariel Baynes," which was a pseudonym used by Martha Baynes Smith.

Restrictions on Access: Open to all users.

Papers are stored offsite; advance notice required for use.

Acquisition Info: Source: Melissa and Jared Smith, Palmer Smith Jr.'s daughter and son, June 2007.

Processing Info: Minimally processed.
