Historical Note

The Walla Walla Citizens Committee for Historic and Civic Development was formed May 1, 1962, for the purpose of establishing a museum in Fort Walla Walla Park. After six years of planning and budgeting, the Fort Walla Walla Museum opened in 1968. At one point, the committee had upward of 50 members, many of whom were influential community members. They merged with the Pioneer and Historical Society around 1975; an organization which manages the museum to this day.

Content Description

The Walla Walla Citizens Committee for Historical and Civic Development Records houses organizational records of the Walla Walla Citizens Committee for Historical and Civic Development (WWCCHCD). These records, dated circa 1962, consist of a merger proposal between WWCCHCD and the Pioneer and Historical Society, a Fort Walla Walla museum committee member list, planning documents for Fort Walla Walla museum displays, newspaper clippings, aerial photographs, land use documents of the Fort Walla Walla Museum site, and mailers.
